Two Fatal Traffic Accidents In Pittsburgh District Also

DROWNING TRAGEDY NEAR WEST NEWTON

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 3.—Four drownings and two automobile deaths today brought the weekend traffic fatalities to six, with two more days to go before the end of the Fourth of July holidays.

A man and a woman lost their lives late yesterday in traffic accidents. Beatrice Markland, 31, Turcreek, was killed when the motorcycle on which she was riding crashed into an automobile at Paton township. Her escort, Robert J. Young, was taken to a hospital with a fractured skull.

Saul Horovitz, driving an automobile was fatally injured when he crashed into a motorcycle.

Three Sisters Drown

At West Newton, Pa., three sisters trapped by the turbulent Youghiogheny river, drowned trying to save each other when their rowboat overturned. They were Louise, 18, Ann, 22 and Eleanor Merella, 23, of Collinsburg, about one mile above West Newton.

Margaret Skryanc, 20, a neighbor's daughter, was able to swim to safety when the boat capsized. John Albak of Collinsburg, said he had warned the girls against using the boat.

Only a short distance from shore, Margaret said, the boat was caught in the current and overturned. Because it was in a secluded spot, nobody heard the frantic screams of the girls. Margaret said she attempted to part the three sisters, who grabbed each other in the water, but to no avail.

She then swam into shore and notified authorities who at once began grappling operations.

Renee Gross, 10, was drowned in a swimming pool when she waded out over her depth.

a written opinion of Attorney General Murphy, contended the powers simply "lapsed" and will be revived when and if the conference report is adopted. This latter will be no easy task, for Republicans were busily working today to muster votes against adoption of the report. They said they had some hopes of defeating it.

Rejection of the report without instructions to conferees to seek another meeting with house conferees would mean that legislation creating or extending the powers must be started anew through the long legislative processes of congress, job certainly entailing weeks if not months of work, with congress in its present rebellious frame of mind.

Despite these obstacles, Democrats laid plans for a counter-attack to wipe out Republican and anti-administration gains in the tempestuous sessions of the house and senate last Friday.

Neutrality legislation comes up before the foreign relations committee on Wednesday, and Chairman Pittman (D) Nevada supported by several staunch administration followers, will demand that the committee continue in daily session until some sort of a bill is drafted. The Bloom bill passed by the house was quickly denounced by Secretary Hull and Pittman in harsh terms, but its provisions for an arms ban commanded considerable support in the committee. Whether the Democratic leadership can prevent committee approval of the measure was doubtful.

The Brockville police chief headed Dr. Smith's plea not to be incarcerated in jail and he and Mrs. Smith, who was reported in a hysterical condition, by Young were established in a suite on the top floor of the hotel across the street from the city hall. A Royal Canadian mountie and a local constable stood guard over them.

The Louisiana officials, traveling by plane, were expected some time today to return Dr. Smith. Mrs. Smith will follow later by train. The plane landed at Cleveland last night for an overnight stop.

RETURN TO WASHINGTON

According to attachés at the temporary executive offices, the president had no engagements and planned to spend his spare time enjoying the run of his 1,200 acre estate.

The executive was scheduled to leave Hyde Park at midnight tomorrow. This will put him back in Washington in advance of the senate's agreed vote on extending his powers to devalue the dollar.

There was sharp debate between administration leaders and their political opponents over the validity of a ruling by Attorney General Murphy that the measure continuing the monetary act could be passed at any time. Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats contend the president's money powers died at midnight, June 30—closing minute of the fiscal year.

"The steady influx of Soviet troops and their persistent and wanton provocations led to a fresh and vigorous counter-offensive by the Kwantung army."

Soviet artillery on the west bank of the Khalkha river was silenced, fully outflanked the invaders and cut off their retreat.

"Late in May," the announcement continued, "Japanese forces in cooperation with Manchukuo troops repulsed Soviet and outer Mongolian forces from Nomonhan and then withdrew from the border region after attaining their objective of chastising the invaders."

The Soviet-outer Mongolian forces, however, apparently mistook this withdrawal and again crossed into Manchukuo territory. The Kwantung army patiently watched the movement until it became bolder and bolder, with further penetration of Manchukuo territory effected.

"Since June 17, the Soviet and outer Mongolian air forces frequently raided various points in Manchukuo territory, where they met effective resistance and suffered heavy losses."

Labor Board Will Be Probed

Congressional Leaders Concede House Will Order Probe Of N. L. R. B.

LONG INQUIRIES ARE NOW FORECAST

BY ROBERT HUMPHREYS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Prolonged inquiries into the relief and labor policies of the New Deal during the remainder of the year appeared certain today, as congressional leaders conceded that the house will order an investigation of the National Labor Relations board.

The house last week voted its special WPA investigating committee an additional $75,000 to continue a probe into the relief structure.

Within the next 10 days the same board is slated to act on the Smith resolution calling for creation of a special committee to investigate the N.L.R.B. and its administration of the Wagner act. Congressional administration leaders assert privately that the resolution will be approved by a substantial majority.

It is not considered likely that either the W.P.A. probors or the prospective labor board investigating committee will ever have to face the accusation of employing "white-wash" tactics. The W.P.A. inquiry committee, which has already conducted preliminary hearings, is composed mostly of conservative Democrats and Republicans, all of whom are members of the economy bloc in the house.

NOT YET ORDERED

Although the investigation of the N.L.R.B. is yet to be ordered and the committee named, the resolution authorizing the inquiry is being sponsored by a group of southern conservative Democrats who, under the long-standing custom of the house, will undoubtedly win representation on the committee, and it is almost certain that one of them will be named chairman.

Active backers of the resolution are Rep. Howard W. Smith (D), Virginia, whose name it bears, and Rep. Gene Cox (D), Georgia. Unsuccessful attempts were made to "purge" both of them in the Democratic primaries last year. Seeray of Interior Ickes directed a vigorous battle against Smith, but Cox escaped with less organized fight against him.

Cox claims that the Smith resolution will obtain three-to-one approval in the house and few dispute him. Both the Virginian and Cox are members of the powerful house rules committee which last week gave the resolution right of way on the floor with less than an hour of debate.

long windows, it was inspiring to anyone approaching the plant. The well lighted interior revealed the spotless housekeeping practiced at the plant. Red tile floors and buff glazed tile walls with attractive designs worked in show that the desire for architectural beauty went along with the need for efficiency in the design of the plant.

The opening of the new power plant has marked one of the most auspicious events in the recent history of New Castle. Dedicated last Thursday afternoon at a very simple ceremony, the plant has drawn people to it from far and near. The roads into West Pittsburg have seen more traffic than for many a day. At various times during the four-day period over five hundred cars per hour were parked at the plant. People moved through in a steady stream, yet in spite of these crowds there was not a single accident to mar the event. Automobile traffic was handled very efficiently and the entire crowd was orderly and courteous, not interfering in the least with the normal operations of the plant which were constantly attended by the plant staff.

OPENING PERIOD ENDED

The body is being brought here and may be seen Tuesday afternoon and evening in the Jos. S. Rice Co. Chapel on North Street. Services will be conducted in the chapel Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. Interment will be in Graceland cemetery.

MRS. JOHN HINKSON

Mrs. Margaret E. Hinkson, aged 72 years, wife of John M. Hinkson of 115 South Ray street, died in the Jameson Memorial hospital Sunday at 1 a.m. after an illness.

Mrs. Hinkson was born in Plain Grove November 5, 1866, and passed all her life in Lawrence county. Her parents were Harrison and Mary Miller. She leaves her husband, one daughter, Nettie Jane Hinkson, this city; four brothers, John Miller of Youngstown, O., C. A. Miller of Ellwood City, Fred Miller of Butler, and James Miller of Aliquippa, and one sister, Mrs. Caroline Thompson of New Castle.

MRS. JOHN HINKSON

The Lawrence County Chapter of the American Red Cross maintained an emergency hospital at the plant during the four days, but treated only two or three minor bruises, although in some cases elderly people used the Red Cross headquarters to rest while friends or relatives waited through the plant. Mrs. Bell was the nurse on duty during the entire period, while several members of the Red Cross first aid committee were available at all times in case of emergency.

THE COMPANY ANNOUNCED

The company announced today that, due to the nature of some of the exhibits which were borrowed from manufacturers throughout the country, the opening period could not be extended any further. It is planned within the near future to announce arrangements for regular tours through the plant, upon the request of any group.

With the opening inspection over, the plant has passed a definite milestone and has entered upon its regular life of usefulness to the community. In appearance as well as in utility it is a distinct asset to this area.

SESQUI-CENTENNIAL
HELD AT NEW GENEVAJULY FOURTH PROGRAM FOR FIELD CLUB GIVEN

Mrs. Marvin Dinsmore, president of the New Castle Perry chapter of the Daughters of 1812, and members of the organization were invited to attend the sesqui-centennial celebration of "Friendship Hill" on Friday afternoon at New Geneva, Pa.

The Daughters of 1812 of West Virginia and Pennsylvania were hostesses at a garden party to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the completion of the original house in 1789. Assisting the hostesses were the Daughters of the American Revolution and other patriotic organizations.

The event took place on the lawn, where the Lafayette feast was spread for one thousand guests in 1825, honoring the Revolutionary general Marquis de Lafayette, when he was entertained by the master of the vast estate, Albert Gallatin. The hostesses, attired in colonial costumes, and children dressed likewise, danced the minuet.

The "Friendship Hill" organization has been organized for the purpose of purchasing and preserving the home just as it stands with its furnishings, as a memorial to Albert Gallatin and his invaluable services to our country.

During the afternoon hours, from 1:30 to 5:00 p.m., the assemblage was shown around the estate. Guests were from Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

SOME THOUGHTS FOR JULY FOURTH

LIBERTY is a priceless heritage. Few are the peoples who have proved worthy to receive it.

One hundred and sixty-three years ago in the founding of the American Republic, a new experiment was begun in government. The names of the men who prepared the Declaration of Independence still are held in reverence. They crystallized sentiments which had been dear to aspiring humanity for centuries. They handed on a tradition which has been safeguarded as precious from generation to generation since.

These solemn considerations and should bring to us a conviction of deep responsibility.

The example of the American people in declaring their independence and founding a new democracy gave strong incentive to many to follow their example. All over Europe the spirit of liberty was quickened. Something of an advance was made, but in America alone were the gains lasting and progressive.

This Fourth of July dawns in a world dangerously disturbed, in a tumult of political unrest and uncertainty. Hopes for world peace inspired by international agreements seem frustrated. In many places liberty established at great cost has yielded to oppression. Friends of liberty again look imploringly to America.

The determination frequently is asserted that Americans will not again fight for the liberty of others. The responsibility is all the greater that here in our own land we maintain with dignity and with the invincible force of the people's will, expressed through orderly Government, the principles of liberty established by the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States.

The Fourth of July fittingly is a day for celebration, for rejoicing.

Well may it be also a time for thoughtful consideration of the duties and responsibilities of citizenship in this great nation.

LONG MAY IT WAVE

Westchester County, New York, famed for its progressive government and its generous yet prudent policies for enhancement of the social welfare, has decided to have a flag of its own. The official bunting will be designed and created with a view to further development of local pride in an administrative organism that has won plaudits far and wide.

We can see no objection to this burst of governmental loyalty. As a matter of fact, it may serve to strengthen local sovereignty and patriotism at a moment when both seem likely to be ground beneath the heel of Federalism.

The name and fame of Westchester may well be spread as extensively as possible through the medium of the colorful symbol now proposed. If and when the Washington bureaucrats become too rampant, it will be a fine thing to see at least one county emblem whipping in the breeze of bold and courageous independence.

FURTHER TAX REVISION WOULD HELP

The President's signature on the tax revision bill has now effected the elimination of the undistributed earnings levy which, as a symbol of Government interference with private business, has been a factor in the retarding of recovery.

Although the bill just signed hits only the high spots of needed tax revision in the interest of industrial revival, it can hardly be other than a helpful and constructive influence.

It would be good judgment on the part of Congress to follow this tax bill with another, along the lines suggested by John W. Hanes, Under Secretary of the Treasury, to remove the tax exemption from Federal securities to be issued in the future and to reduce the higher surtaxes on top-bracket incomes. Both provisions, it is believable, would result in increased investment of private funds in productive enterprises and in the creation of more jobs for the jobless.

In addition, Congress should give attention to the proposal of Senator Barbour of New Jersey that a national tax commission be set up to study overlapping taxation by Federal and State Governments.

MARS NEAREST IN 15 YEARS

Within a month one of the earth's near neighbors, Mars, will be at its nearest in 15 years, and some regret will be felt that the 200-inch reflector telescope under construction in California will not be ready to take part in the inevitable scrutiny by astronomers. Smaller disks and lenses will be trained on the visitor in search of an answer to the question whether life is supported on its surface. It is doubtful if even the giant telescope could solve the riddle.

It is not what the eye can take in that reveals to the scientists the secrets of the heavenly bodies. A thousand times more dependable is the instrument that breaks up light rays and wrests from them the secret of the materials from which they come. It has told already that oxygen and water vapor, two of life's essentials, are at low ebb for the sister world. Devices for measuring temperatures, another vital factor, disclose that Mars is colder than the earth, but not too cold for hardy beings to exist.

A huge telescope might help to solve the mystery of the "canals," so straight and so sharply defined as to suggest artificial construction, yet the greatest magnifying power would still fall short of bringing into view much more than new subjects of speculation.

Rather than studying the planets or the moon—the latter it could bring within a few hundred miles—the new telescope will be dedicated, it is said, to exploring remote corners of the universe, inspecting nebulae and novae and trying to find out whether the billions of light years in distance already determined mark an approach to the limits of the galaxies or are but part of a space that has no boundaries.

As for Mars, the god of war, drawing near the earth in this time of world unrest a quarter-century after another and tragic July, the astrologists will draw therefrom their warnings without benefit of telescope or spectroscope.

Another trouble with this world is too darned many Napoleons and not enough Wellingtons.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

LEARNING TO PLAY

Many a mother, eager to have her child become a good playmate very early, is discouraged by his lack of sociability toward other children of his age. She probably expects too much of him. She should know that up to about three he is by nature an individualist. He just has to learn gradually to co-operate in play with others. While frequent contacts with other children hasten this acquirement, a good deal of it depends upon his physical growth and development.

During this period he plays by himself a great deal of the time. Though he likes to have other children play near him, he prefers to follow his own interests.

It is when the child's imagination develops that he begins to enjoy dramatic play and choose to join part of the time, in play with other children. And how fast the child's interest in creative imagination unfolds depends largely on how well his parents adapt themselves to this development, play the part the young dramatist assigns to them, and read or tell folk tales to him.

Through Pressure

But even a child of five may follow his own play interest through the pressure of other children. While you won't insist that they always play together, it is well for them to play alongside other children of their age, affording them increasing inducement to play together.

In the home it is desirable that the young children do not have duplicate toys. If, for example, two have carts or wagons alike, they will confuse the ownership and quarrel, each growing more independent and selfish. But if one has a cart and the other a wagon, provided each had been trained to respect the other's ownership, they will naturally discover it to their advantage to co-operate.

Work Together

Two or more children at creative play with blocks may choose to work together for a long stretch of time on the same structure, especially if one leads off and the other accepts his leadership.

Contrary to popular belief, the play interests of boys and girls up to five or six are very much alike. Greater difference is apparent at the age of eight or ten.

While children differ widely in their play interests, they all tend to go through stages. They first handle materials and enjoy the experiences they get through the senses; then they gradually put things together, first very crudely, then with more and more likeness to the things they say they are building or creating. As more definite ideas take shape there grows more and more dramatic play.

Fortunate is the young child who is encouraged at normal play.

THE GETTYSBURG ADDRESS.

July Fourth is more than Independence Day. It is a day that means more to the citizens of the United States than the day on which the Nation was born. It was the day upon which General Lee began his retreat from Gettysburg, following the defeat of the Confederate Forces in that very decisive Battle fought the first three days of July, 1863. Had the Battle of Gettysburg gone otherwise, it is possible and even probable that there would have remained no United States of America. The Nation would have been split into many Nations.

It is to be remembered that the Civil War was not a war to destroy or to perpetuate Slavery. It was a war fought to perpetuate the Union, and the Battle of Gettysburg was the turning point of that War.

Only four and one-half months following the Battle of Gettysburg, on November 19, 1863, Abraham Lincoln delivered his memorable Address, upon the field of that great Battle, and that Address should be memorized by every boy and girl in these United States. It is fitting that it should be republished at this time:

"Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in Liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

"For Heaven's sake, lady, don't call a cop and chase me away," he pleaded. "You're the only shady spot in the whole park."

A wedding guest in Chicago is charged with throwing hot pennies to kids who were peeping in the door at the wedding. Some were badly burned. Bet those kids think he should be charged with something worse than disorderly conduct.

Even if there will be no firecrackers on the Fourth of July, there will be a lot of other dangerous things to keep away from.

ANOTHER IRISHMAN

An Irishman was buying a talking machine, and the obliging salesman had delighted him by playing several Irish songs. He was particularly pleased by some McCormack records, but, after hearing these, he was still unsatisfied.

"Is there anything else you would like to hear?" said the salesman.

"Yes," said Pat; "that other famous Irishman—oh, how I would like to hear him sing."

"Who do you mean?" asked the salesman.

"Oh, you know who I mean, well enough, but I can't think of his—Yes, that's him: Al McGlue."

The salesman smiled and got out one of the Alma Gluck records.

"But, O ye gastric juices, come! Come fluently and soon And save my salmagundi tum A gastronomic swoon."

The chicken was an "a la" thing With mushrooms and pimento, Surrounded by a pastry ring And olives from Sorrento.

A vitamin salad mass Espaghettis its way; Brazil nuts, mints, a demitasse—I hope they're going to stay.

The man looked at her appealingly.

"For Heaven's sake, lady, don't call a cop and chase me away," he pleaded. "You're the only shady spot in the whole park."

TODAY'S STORYETTE

An Englishman visiting a friend in Nevada suggested one morning shortly after his arrival that they take a stroll to a mountain visible from his friend's home.

With secret mirth, his host agreed, but after walking several hours, the Englishman was amazed to find the mountain apparently no nearer. Upon asking his friend how far the mountain was from them, he was astonished to find that it was still 30 miles away from them.

His host then explained that the Nevada air is so rare that distances are deceptive.

Returning home by a different route, they came to an irrigated field, and at the first ditch, the Englishman sat down, and to his host's surprise, began removing his shoes.

"What on earth are you doing?" the host asked.

The Englishman gravely contemplated the ditch replied: "Why, I'm going to swim this river."

"At the hospital."

"Flu?"

"Partly. Flew and cracked up."

Every Motor Policemen Stationed Here To Be On Road Duty

VIOLATORS OF LAW WILL BE ARRESTED

State Motor Police Corporal G. F. Keck today declared that every member of the local detachment of the state-wide organization would be on duty tonight, throughout the Fourth of July up to eight a.m. Wednesday morning and warned that violations of the highway motor laws would be punishable by arrest. "Police will be on the different highways to minimize the possibility of accidents. They will not permit speeding, cutting in and out in a reckless manner nor bad passes," he stated.

The Lawrence county motorists traveling public cooperated with the Motor police on Memorial day and the results were highly gratifying. The motor public can expect courtesy and cooperation from us and we ask the same he added.

There are 10 motor policemen here. Because of motorists traveling east and west to the two Fairs, one in New York and the other in San Francisco, traffic has increased and Fourth of July traffic may be heavier than in years past.

gaged the Government to the extent of about eight billion dollars and have authority to increase this by eight billion more.

OF this there has been no real accounting and no appraisement, as the transactions do not function through the budget. That there have been very large losses is as much beyond question as that these losses must be added to the direct public debt. So that when the Treasurer asserts that the debt is forty-three or forty-four billions, the Treasury does not really know what the debt is. Nor does anyone else. What we do know is that it is very much higher by reason of the unknown losses of these "outside-the-budget" operations. The Byrd resolution requires the Treasury to prepare and transmit to Congress a complete financial statement of these "outside-the-budget" agencies. It insists upon details of assets and liabilities; statement of revenues and expenditures, of operating costs and methods of accounting; of loans in default; of the notes, bonds, stocks, debentures and other obligations held etc., etc.

CHILDREN AFFLICTED WITH
PROGRESS NORMALLY

Rheumatic fever is not the only disease which follows the heels of repeated infections. Another such disease, not so prevalent as rheumatic fever, nor as deadly, perhaps, is quite serious and all too common. This disease bears the rather formidable name of bronchiectasis.

As the name would indicate, it is a disease of the bronchial tubes which convey the air to the lungs. This is often referred to as the bronchial tree because the healthy system of tubes resembles an inverted tree. The wide tube leading from the mouth, called the trachea, corresponds to the tree trunk. As this tube passes down into the chest, it divides into two branches, one to each lung. These branches divide again and again until they are very fine vessels, leading to every part of the lung.

When the individual is healthy, these branches become finer and finer as they go deeper in the chest. Bronchiectasis is the condition caused when sacs of pus gather in these tubes, causing dilations. Here is how they come about:

Around the top of the nose are situated our sinuses. Some children suffer from inflammation of these cavities, pus forms in them, and much of this pus comes out as a discharge from the nose. Not all of it is gotten rid of in this way, however, for the child swallows some. And that goes to the stomach but is destroyed by the acid there. But some that is swallowed doesn't go to the stomach, but passes down the tube to the lungs.

As you no doubt know, pus is composed of dead blood cells and waste material from broken-down tissue. Pus is just the result of the body trying to get rid of poison and it contains active germs. When it passes down into the tubes, it injures the delicate lining.

Each tube is lined with a peculiar membrane, the surface of which is covered with fine hairs designed to catch any foreign substances that might find their way into the lungs. Foreign material, so caught, is passed back through the mouth and nose. This membrane becomes injured when pus flows over it. If the pus continues to come through the tubes, the membrane is destroyed and the bacteria in the pus infects the muscular tissue beneath. When the muscular tissue is so infected, it loses its tension. As a result, there is a gradual dilation of the tube in this area, and in this area the pus gathers.

As time goes on, if the pus from the sinuses isn't stopped, more and more of these dilations form, each one being a pus sac. Then the patient coughs up pus. It is this condition that we know as bronchiectasis.

I have seen a great many cases of this disease in this country, and no child that develops it can do well. That is, he won't have his proper appetite. He will be thin and pale, and have a continual cough.

England And Japan To Start Negotiations Over Tientsin

Tokyo Scene Of Conference

Delegates Arrived For Preliminary Conference Last Night

NEGOTIATIONS TO OPEN TOMORROW

(International News Service)

TOKYO, July 3.—Negotiators for England and Japan prepared to meet today to attempt to settle the Anglo-Japanese dispute growing out of events in Tientsin where a Nipponese blockade of the foreign concessions seriously threatened English and other outside interests.

Public stripping of a British subject today at Tientsin by a Japanese sentry was the latest incident to entangle Anglo-Japanese relations further after more than three weeks of tension throughout which Japan made it clear Tokyo's intention is to clear all foreign interests and influence out of China.

The delegates of the two nations arrived for their preliminary discussions last night. They were Major G. A. Herbert, British consul at Tientsin and Sotomatsu Kato, specially sent by the Japanese foreign office to act for Tokyo.

Formal negotiations were not expected to begin until tomorrow or Wednesday, but a formal introduction of the negotiators and preliminary conversations were expected to begin at once.

Hollywood Celebrities Move Out For Holiday

By BURDETTE JAY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 3.—There's nothing so dead as Hollywood on a holiday. The great studios are hollow caverns. Nobody is staying in Hollywood over the Fourth. The stars, executives and other employees have scattered to the four winds—the mountains, seashore, ranches, yachts and planes. The film capital says a nice quiet day at home is a little hokey.

The vanishing American is indeed vanishing. The Fox studio discovered it when they set about finding 300 Indians for "Drums Along the Mohawk". They wanted Indians of the five nations (Mohawks, Oneidas, Onondagas, Cayugas and Senecas) comprising the Iroquois federation. A thorough search of Hollywood and vicinity disclosed but two, and one wasn't tall enough. The tall one, Chief Big Three, joined Claudette Colbert, Henry Fonda and the rest of the cast on location near Cedar City, Utah.

Finding the other 299 has turned into a very large order. Hindus, Chinese, Malaysians or any other race are available in filmland in abundance. But not the original native American. The southwestern tribes are too short to simulate the tall the stalwart Iroquois. The casting office now is seeking redskins of the proper physique among the Pueblo and Navajo tribes on their reservations near the Utah location.

Just six weeks in the movies, Brenda left the ranch at 4 a. m. with the remark "So Movies Are Glamorous". Two hundred extras, 100 technicians and the

Plans Progress For Girl Scout Permanent Camp

Registrations Are Speeding Up As Date Of Camp Draws Nearer

With the annual Day Camp at Cascade Park now concluded, plans of the Girl Scouts of New Castle are now being centered on the annual permanent camp, which will be conducted again this year at Camp Klondashaw, Transfer, Pa., where the Mercer County Boy Scout camp is located. The dates are August 13 to 27.

The Permanent Camp committee, which is composed of Mrs. W. H. Hanger, chairman, Miss Elizabeth Reis, Miss Della Glenn, Mrs. Andrew Dodds, Mrs. Robert A. Armstrong and Mrs. Albert P. Trese, have left nothing undone which would assure the finest camp that the Girl Scouts have ever conducted, and this year's camp is expected to prove outstanding in every respect.

Miss Audriele Lynch, better known to the girls as "Lindy" will be camp director, and a competent staff of assistants has been secured to assist her.

The camp is now more than half full, which speaks well for a capacity attendance this year, and those who have not already made registration are advised to do so at once, as some of the units are already almost full and only a few more can be registered. Miss Alice Roberts will be in the Girl Scout office in the Green building each day during July from 9 to 12 a. m. and 1 to 5 p. m. to accept registrations.

Scheduled for 15 rounds, the bout lasted exactly 47 seconds, with Heuser flattened by a smashing right-hand punch to the chin. It was the only real blow landed during the surprisingly brief battle attended by nearly 70,000.

Army Air Corps Set To Regain Air Supremacy

Huge Sums Will Be Spent By United States To Attract Scientists And Engineers

RESEARCH PLAYS IMPORTANT ROLE

By LEON W. SHLOSS
International News Service Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 3.—A grease-grimed aeronautical engineer at work in a cheerless laboratory isn't nearly as exciting as a streamlined airplane power diving earthward at 500 miles an hour—but the engineer is immeasurably the more important, because without him there would be no such airplane.

The country with the most military airplanes is by no means the strongest in the air. If the planes which one nation sends against another cannot match the speed, maneuverability, etc., of the adversary, they are useless.

So—any nation's military air might actually depends on the man in the laboratory who is constantly working to create a better airplane.

U. S. Planes Once Led World

A few years ago the military airplanes of the United States were the envy of the world, and this country held a majority of the recognized world airplane performance records, among them the speed, the altitude and distance marks—all key records from the military standpoint.

In those days this country's aviation research activities, carried on by the National Advisory Committee For Aeronautics at Langley Field, Va., and the Air Corps Material Division at Wright Field, Ohio, kept the United States in the van of the aerial parade.

But the nations of Europe—notably Germany—opened an amazing research campaign. This country's scientific advancements were outstripped, until today, as Col. Charles

A. Lindbergh, after inspection of research facilities in both Germany and the United States, told high Army Air Corps officials: "If we don't get going, we can't catch up with Germany in five years."

A key phase of the Air Corps' two-year, $300,000 rehabilitation program will be the attempted recapture of U. S. technical superiority. More than $12,000,000 will be spent in the coming year to increase the facilities of the Wright Field Army plant, and to draw top-rank scientists and engineers into the field of military aviation research.

Only a short time ago, the War Department announced successful testing of the most powerful air-cooled, radial engine in aviation history. This motor, made by Wright, is an 18-cylinder, twin-row power plant, rated at 2,000 horsepower—50 greater than the here-toe-highest rating. It is known that this engine actually will turn out at least 2,300 H.P.

Starting New Advances

During a recent inspection tour of the Langley Field laboratories by representatives of the aircraft industry and the aeronautical press, half a dozen spectacular advances were demonstrated. A rigid ban on publicity for the most significant was laid down. Among those that "can be told" were:

1—A "wonder wing" which increases the laminar boundary so much that airplane speeds may be increased from 20 to 25 percent.

2—A fuel injection system permitting use of "safety fuels" which will not diffuse inflammable vapors at less than 105 degrees temperature. Ordinary aviation gasoline vapors will ignite at 30 degrees. The new fuel system and fuels will sharply reduce the number of fires after crashes.

3—A new tail assembly eliminating all possibility of the dreaded tailspin.

Mercer Observing Old Home Week

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., July 3—Thousands of people are expected here during the days of Old Home Week July 2-8 which celebrates 136 years of Mercer town history and 139 years of Mercer County history.

The program for July 4 is expected to draw a crowd of 5,000 providing weather conditions are favorable. A monster parade at 10 a.m. followed by racing at 1:15 p.m. at the fair ground track when 50 horses score for the show, followed by an evening entertainment of fireworks at 8 p.m. mean that the visitors will be here.

Do You Remember?

Compiled And Presented For Publication In The News By Old Timer's Day Association

Alexander Long, a revolutionary soldier, came to New Castle from Allegheny county in 1806, settled on a 200 acre government land grant south of Long avenue, and was the father of Joseph and Arthur Long. He divided his farm between them giving each 100 acres. His grandson John Long, a brick manufacturer, made all the brick used in the Lawrence county court house, and the old First M. E. church on South Jefferson street, now St. Josephs. John Long was the father of Elias Long and John Charters Long. Elias was the father of Ella Long and James Russell Long, and his only grandson E. John Long is on the editorial staff of the National Geographic Magazine. John Charters Long is the father of Mrs. Fred L. Rentz.

The first discovery of coal in the bounds of Lawrence county was probably made by John Steckman in Big Beaver township in the year 1810. The first man to whom the title "Doctor" was given was Cornelius Hendrickson, Sr., the grandfather of the Doctors Wallace. The first regular physician was Dr. John Dickey who practiced successfully commencing in the year 1810. He lived in a log house which stood in the front yard of Mr. Joseph Justice's residence. The log house was afterwards used by Mr. Justice as a shop in his hatting business. A school was taught in it as early as 1813, and it was also frequently used for singing schools.

Next succeeding Dr. Dickey, came Alexander Gilliland, a regular physician and surgeon. Then followed Doctors Quimby, Cribble, Stevenson, and William Shaw. The latter practiced medicine in New Castle for many years, and was esteemed for his many social qualities and gentlemanly deportment.

The inhabitants of New Castle were not behind their neighbors in patriotism during the war with Britain. (Continued Wednesday)

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

There are most arresting phases of our Federal government's fascinating activities which seldom attract much interest from the press, usually coming to attention through matter-of-fact bulletins. There are services which continually plan and labor for the security and comfort of our people, and the planners and laborers are individuals whose names almost never appear in print.

There are government scientists, without a thought of old deals or new deals, who chart the deeps, maintain our beacon lights on coast and inland waterways, teach the farmers how to make two blades grow where one flourished before. For example, The United States Lighthouse Service, of which Alexander Hamilton was the first superintendent, is celebrating this summer its 150th anniversary, and its current bulletin informs me that Boston Lighthouse, the first lighthouse built in American waters, is still going strong after 233 years.

The Lighthouse Service is an organization in which all Americans can take great pride. On the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Coasts of the American mainland, on the shores of Alaska, Hawaii, Samoa, Puerto Rico, the Panama Canal, on the Great Lakes, along the Mississippi and the other navigable rivers of the United States, more than 29,000 aids of safe navigation are flashing warning signals, and the number continues to increase.

Politics has never played a part in the Lighthouse Service. Its men look upon their work as a career profession, and upon themselves as a fraternity whose business is to safeguard ships at sea. The most powerful lighthouse we have is the great beacon at Navesink, flashing its radiant warning fifty miles out at sea. Our first lighthouse keeper—at Boston Lighthouse, of course—was George Worthyake, who was drowned with his wife and daughter in 1718.

When Benjamin Franklin was 13 years old, he wrote a ballad about that tragic incident.

The Lighthouse Service has come a long way from the days of the early lights, with their whale oil lamps and wicks, to the modern electric lanterns which now pierce the nights and the storms, and the radio signal beams flung 300 miles out into the sea lanes. The great lighthouse on Fire Island, whose golden beam points the way to New York, and which rears 168 feet above the sands of a wave-battered stretch of coast, now prospers a 19-mile beam of radiance from a huge electric bulb.

What drama these lighthouses have seen down through the sweep of years! What tall ships ashore! What heroic endeavor and gallant rescues! Even in these modern days, when ship speaks to ship by radio and calls to land, all men who go down to the sea in ships turn their eyes thankfully to these tall, slim brethren of the coasts, flashing their eternal warning against an ancient enemy.

The United States Navy, with the cruiser Milwaukee, has plumb a new record depth of five and a half miles in the Atlantic Ocean, just north of Puerto Rico, and now named the Milwaukee Deep. The breathless depth was recorded by a marvellously delicate little scientific instrument which measures the time it takes the echo of a sound at the surface of the sea to return from the bottom of the sea—distance measured by the speed of sound.

Man has ranged into the most distant and formidable regions of earth, seeking the secrets of the land, but the old sea remains unconquered, hiding its secrets veiling its mysteries. And the bottom of the sea, which covers six-sevenths of the surface of the globe, is the new wonderland which science and adventure have set themselves to explore.

We have learned in recent years that there are pastures and deserts and primordial forests on the ocean floor, hardly changed in a hundred thousand centuries—forests lovelier than the giant redwoods of California. To stroll, as man will someday do, through one of these submarine jungles, beautiful beyond belief, would be like walking in a dream.

About the sea there clings romance, breathless, incredible through countless centuries, beckoning mankind to high adventure, to new triumphs of communication such as the Western Union achieves when it sinks its precious cables deep down into the sea-floor. What two behold if ever the good Lord lifted up the sea and bared its awesome mysteries? It will be a million times a million years when that occurs—so science tells us—and there would be no life left or earth to stand appalled at the miracle.
